C.C. 286--81
Records Office
Chancery Lane. LONDON.

In the Narrative of an Expedition to the head of the Derwent in February and March, 1835 George Frankland on 10th February records "In the evening having advanced about six miles we reached the eastern extremity of an unusually extensive marsh through which we found a considerable river took its course which I called the "Humboldt" in honour of the distinguished Naturalist of that name."

4th March, 1835 "The Florentine lay to the South of the Peak apparently flowing from Mount Field and threading its course Northward through a thickly wooded valley till it was met by the base of the great Mountain and then wheeling Eastward...."

L. Norman says "Mount Field West and Mount Humboldt were apparently confused by Sprent in 1856 by using Mount Field West instead of Mount Humboldt in his triangulation. The final change to Mount Field West was made after World War I when there was some public demand for it."

Tasmanian Gazetteer of 1877 records "a name (Mount Humboldt) applied to Field West, which see." "Field, East and West is the name given to two lofty peaks 4165 and 4721 feet respectively. They are about 5 miles apart E. and W....the former being about 10 miles SW of Hamilton."

"Mount Field Humboldt was changed to Mount Field West in 1918.
Humboldt, a name bestowed in honour of a famous scientist by Strzelecki should now be restored. It has been so restored here (in these papers) and the name Mount Field used for Mount Field East." A.W.Lewis in "Geology of the Tyenna Valley" in Papers and Proceedings of Royal Society 1939, page 35.

"That keen observer Humboldt... Strzelecki's NSW and VDL 1846 p 175 "...and Humboldt whose name is associated with every branch of terrestrial physics made it (1.8 Variation in daily range of the barometer) a subject of special enquiry."

"I suggest that a good horse track be opened through from Judd's Creek to join the present road at the head of River Plenty."

Judd's Falls,
"...upon the southern side (of Mt. Anne) there is a stream of water that flows over a ledge of rock upon the top of the mount into space.
So very high is it that it is thrashed into vapour before it can get to the earth and has the appearance of a flosof silk floating about in the air..."

Judd's account 1898
P & P Royal Society 1923 p 39

"Judd's Falls coming off the slope NE of Elizabeth are of particular interest. As you watch from about a mile away there is one continuous fall suddenly it divides into two separate falls and then the whole fall disappears as a puff of wind hits in and lifit in a cloud of mist. Then the whole business repeats again." A.V.G. see note

Capt. Copping lived there and brought peacocks with him from New Guinea. Has this any association with the name?
Bowden of Registrar General's Department

Rev.Cowled, Suva, Fiji said the word could come from a root word "kele" to anchor and is sometimes used in old Fijian by a person relating his travels and uses the expression "we anchored at" which in Fijian is "kelevi" Suva which would mean anchored at Suva. In other words Capt.Copping could have used it to indicate that he had "settled."
